

Alexandria History Tours

A perfect activity for students!

Alexandria History Tours has worked with many student groups. Our tours are a fantastic opportunity for students to learn about history through the lens of Alexandria. We love working to educate students through a fun and entertaining tour!

Example #1

We provided a guided tour of historic Alexandria to a class of 45 eighth grade students that were in town for a Washington D.C. annual trip. We also provided them with a tour of the D.C. Monuments and Memorials along the National Mall.

The group enjoyed the tour and requested to do another one the following year.

Example #2

A high school group of 35 students from Germany came to Washington D.C. for a week long immersion program in the United States. We provided a 1.5 hour Civil War tour with Alexandria as the backdrop to learn about this historic topic.

Amazing for visitors and locals alike!

We took a group of 35 visiting German exchange students on this tour to learn about the Civil War and slavery in America. Our tour guide was absolutely amazing, and moved at a good pace that worked with our requested timeframe. He even got to take us inside of Christ Church to see George Washington's pew! A lot of students were taking pictures, and some were asking great questions. The tour guide was very communicative and gave the group some information they specifically asked about the slave trade in Alexandria. I would highly recommend this walking tour for any out of town guests, or even locals seeking to learn more about the rich history in the area. I, as a local, was able to learn so much and see amazing landmarks that I had driven/walked by for years and never knew were significant. Such a great tour!

Example #3

We provided a tour to 25 college students with the Alexander Hamilton Society (AHS). The tour focused on Alexandria's Revolutionary War history. It included a stop inside historic Christ Church Episcopal to see George Washington's box pew.

The group enjoyed the tour and requested to do another one the following year.

An e-mail from the tour organizer:

“We enjoyed our tour with you over the summer and are potentially interested in doing another one this summer with our students.”

A professionally guided walking tour is perfect for students to get out of the classroom and experience history where it happened. We want to work with your student group in Old Town Alexandria!
